Market Review

- In October, the money market witnessed a mild appreciation in yields owing to tight system liquidity and sustained hawkish tone from the MPC. The CBN issued c.N456.57 billion worth of Nigerian Treasury Bills at the two (2) Primary Market Auctions (PMA) held in the month. The final NTB auction saw stop rates for the 91-day, 182-day and 364-day NTBs print at 17.00%, 17.50% and 20.65%, respectively.
- To end the period, benchmark 91-day, 182-day and 1-year bills closed at yields of 23.16%, 24.50% and 24.50%, respectively. The 1-year OMO Bill also ended the month at a yield of 25.60%.
- In a reversal of previous good fortune, we recorded an increase in Nigeria’s headline inflation which grew by 0.55% to 32.70% in September from 32.15% in August. Food inflation printed at 37.77% (vs. 37.52% in August) and core inflation settled at 27.43% (vs. 27.58% in August).

Market Review

- Domestic fixed income yields continued their upward trend following last month's increase in Nigeria's MPR. Combined with tight system liquidity, this has fuelled bearish sentiment in the local fixed income market. Towards the end of the month, yields started to ease for specific FGN bonds, such as the 2031s, 2033s, and 2034s, driven by a slight increase in demand for these tickers.
- During the month, the Federal Government accessed c.N289.6 billion worth of debt via the bond auction. The 5-year and 7-year bonds offered at the auction closed at 20.75% and 21.74% accordingly. The stop rates all printed significantly higher than previous results as the 5-year bond and 9-year bonds were up by 175bps when compared to September's auction results. Appetite at the auction was quite strong with a bid to cover ratio of 1.34x.

Market Review

- It was a month of volatility for the Eurobond market as the FOMC’s rate cut in the previous month extended September’s gains into October. However, global debt talks, and geopolitical tensions put a strain on markets as we approached the close. Overall, it was a drab performance, as the 3-year benchmark Eurobond (Nigeria 2027) closed flat in the period.
- In the United States, the first estimate of the Gross Domestic Product rose at an annualized rate of 2.8% in the third quarter of 2024 (0.1% lower than the expectation of 2.9% and last quarter’s 3.0% print), highlighting a relatively stable US economy.
- September inflation (PCE) in the US printed at 2.1% (in line with expectations and 0.2% lower than the 2.3% print recorded in August).

Key Indicators – October 2024

US FED Policy Rate	5.00%
US Inflation (CPI)	2.40%
YTD Return on 3-Year Nigerian Eurobond	3.53%
YTD Return on Fund	4.55%

Disclaimer:

Investors should consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the funds carefully before investing. This and other information are contained in the fund's prospectus and other documents, if available, which may be obtained by contacting our representative. Please read them carefully before you invest or send money.

Performance reflects changes in unit prices, reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions. All periods longer than one year are annualized. A new or smaller Fund's performance may not represent how the Fund is expected to or may perform in the long-term. New Funds have limited operating histories for investors to evaluate and new and smaller Funds may not attract sufficient assets to achieve investment and trading efficiencies. A Fund may be forced to sell a comparatively large portion of its portfolio to meet significant unitholders redemptions for cash, or hold a comparatively large portion of its portfolio in cash due to significant units purchases for cash, in each case when the Fund otherwise would not seek to do so, which may adversely affect performance.

A word about risk: Investing in foreign denominated and/or domiciled securities may involve heightened risk due to currency fluctuations, and economic and political risks, which may be enhanced in emerging markets. The value of most bond funds and fixed income securities are impacted by changes in interest rates. Bonds and bond funds with longer durations tend to be more sensitive and more volatile than securities with shorter durations; bond prices generally fall as interest rates rise. Past rankings are no guarantee of future rankings.
